DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Jerome Bonaparte Pillow House is a two-storey multi-bay frame house with multiple towers turrets and dormer windows. The main hip roof of the house, bays, dormers and towers are covered with slate shingles. Two large corbeled and paneled brick chimneys pierce the main roof on opposite sides of the house, one toward the front and one toward the rear. Each point of the roof (there are at least seven of them) is capped with an ornate metal finial. The one-storey encircling veranda is punctuated by circular elements, pedimented portions decorated with spindle work and classic-inspired turned columns on pedestal bases. The front circular corner tower is cantilevered from the first storey but extends upward through the second and third-stories and rises to a finial above the main roof. The house is painted gray, trimmed in white with quartz aggregate panels in some of the bay windows and dormers.

The interior of the house is divided into the typical Victorian combination of double parlors, a large dining room and a large library with the rear extension including pantries and the kitchen. The front hall is irregularly shaped with a U-shaped two-landing staircase extending to the second floor. The interior woodwork with the exception of the library is now painted. However, originally all the interior woodwork had a natural finish.

This house is one of Arkansas' most outstanding high Victorian Period structures. It is an elaborate example of Queen Anne Victorian style which was originally painted yellow with white trim with the original slate gray roof, which still survives, and red brick foundation and red brick chimneys. The house is in excellent condition with all of its intricate woodwork, spindle work, and jigsaw cut trim in an excellent state of repair. The only trim missing is the balustrade rail around the front veranda porch. The spacious grounds are still intact complete with wrought iron fence and gates.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The Pillow House is an outstanding example of High Victorian or Queen Anne Victorian architecture. It is significant, first because of its very ornate style executed completely in wood construction, with the exception of a brick foundation and chimneys. Secondly, the house is basically unaltered and in an excellent state of preservation complete with original roof and its enormous amount of elaborate trim. Lastly, the house embodies practically all of the Victorian period vernacular in terms of very irregular shape, multiple bays, towers, turrets and dormers and the whole accomplished in the ultimate eclectic manner of the late 19th Century style in America.
