9. Historical significance (include explanation of themes checked above)

Of the high-style Italianate components of Winthrop Street, this building is the closest in derivation from true Italian Villa architecture, expressed in its square plan and stuccoed wall surface. The similarity in doorway treatment between this house and that of 101 Somerset Ave. may suggest a common carpenter, Abel Burt, who is credited with the construction of the latter structure.

The house was built in c. 1860 for Salmon Washburn, who ran a furniture, housewares and hardware business on Main Street. Washburn began his business career selling paints and oils for his father in the 1820's and went into business for himself in 1840. After Washburn's retirement, his sons, Frank and Charles, carried on the family business throughout the 19th century.

Like the neighboring Samuel Colby Estate, at 74 Winthrop St., also built for a prosperous local businessman, this house is typical of the quality and opulence of domestic construction affordable by the upper middle class in Taunton's most economically stable period.

INVENTORY FORM CONTINUATION SHEET

MASSACHUSETTS HISTORICAL COMMISSION
Office of the Secretary, Boston

Community: Taunton	Form No: 361
Property Name: "Villa 44" Samuel Washburn Hse.

Indicate each item on inventory form which is being continued below.

9. Historical Significance (continued)

Description: Exhibiting a square plan, the structure is 2 stories and has a very low-pitched hipped roof that appears flat from eye level. Its wall surface of stone blocks is stuccoed and scored. Dominating the facade is a bold, semi-circular-arched doorway inset with an elaborate cast-iron screen, cast in foliate pattern, in the transom area. 6/6 windows are elongated and topped by hoods supported on ancons. A very broad, box cornice and projecting eaves shields a frieze with attic windows on the side elevations.

Possessing integrity of location, design, setting, materials, workmanship and association, "Villa 44" meets criterion C of the National Register of Historic Places for the excellent preservation and locally unique character of its spare Italianate style architectural design.

Boundaries conform to current lot lines.
