NATIONAL REGISTER CRITERIA STATEMENT (if applicable)

The George Moore House possesses integrity of location, design, setting, materials, workmanship, feeling, and associations. It is significant as an unusual example of the Gothic Revival style (see form #230; also Newton, Mass. MRA: Webster Park H.D.) characterized by three steeply pitched gabled wall dormers, vergeboards, and a mansard roofed tower rising from the rear elevation. The Moore House also reflects the early residential development of the area directly east of the town center as the population began to climb rapidly. It meets criteria A and C of the National Register of Historic Places.

Historic Name: Moore House

ARCHITECTURAL SIGNIFICANCE Describe important architectural features and evaluate in terms of other buildings within the community.

The Moore House is an unusual example of the Gothic Revival style which bears some resemblance to several period cottages in Newton (Newton, Mass. MRA: Webster Park H.D.; NR: 9/4/86) and to the Abijah Thompson House (#230). It is a 1 1/2 story, clapboard clad structure enclosed by a gable roof. The slightly asymmetrical five bay facade is centered on a double-leaf entry and window set beneath a flat roofed porch with decorative valance. Symmetrically spaced on the roof are three steeply pitched gabled wall dormers. These elements as well as the side gables are highlighted with sawn vergeboards with acorns at the peak. A squat mansard tower and mansard addition rise from the rear elevation.

Style: Gothic Revival

Architect: George D. Moore (builder)

HISTORICAL SIGNIFICANCE Explain the role owners played in local or state history and how the building relates to the development of the community.

Little is known about the history of this house. It appears to have been built in the 1840s based on stylistic evidence, but its first known owners were George D., Frances, and Abbie Moore who resided there from 1865-1931. It is speculated that George D. Moore, a carpenter and builder, constructed the house.
