Cobbs Hall
Northumberland County, VA

Description

Cobbs Hall, originally built on this spot circa 1720, burned in 1846 and rebuilt in 1853 on the foundations of its predecessor, stands today as a significant Northern Neck landmark as well as one of the earliest properties associated with the distinguished Lee family of Virginia. It is an exact copy of the eighteenth-century house with the exception of lacking windows on the north side of the house. Martha Lee Harvey, the Lee descendant who rebuilt her ancestral home, said she had grown up in the original house and never been warm a day in the winter time so she did not install windows on the north side of the new dwelling.

Built as a riverfront plantation seat for one of the Commonwealth's premier families, the house was constructed to overlook Dividing Creek in Northumberland County. The present ante bellum residence is a two-story, brick dwelling with a gable roof, built in the traditional manner of rising above a currently roughly finished, high-English basement. The house on the main floor consists of a large central hall with a double parlor, divided by large pocket doors, on the left (north) and a dining room, enclosed staircase and service rooms to the right (south). On the second floor, a central hall with two bedchambers each on either side again divides the house. The main floor is noted for its ante bellum plasterwork on the ceilings of the central hall and the double parlors, portions of which have been painstakingly restored by the present owner.

The main dwelling is a five-bay, double pile structure, constructed in common bond brick with stone sills and lintels. The window openings consist of six-over-six panes. The north and south elevations have two semi-exterior end chimneys flanking the peak of the gable. The roofline contains a simple cornice with returns and a modest dentil course at the eaves. The east and west elevations both have a central entrance with similar porches supported by paired Tuscan columns and single engaged Tuscan columns, with a simple balustrade above on the second level accessed by a central door on the second floor. Each entrance (on east and west) is via double leaf doors with decorative surrounds: diamond paneled, one-half length sidelights with panels below and an elaborate, full length transom with diamond and oval lights. There are two additional bulkhead entrances to the basement on the north and south elevations.

Description (continued)

The significant plasterwork in the ceiling of the central hall contains an egg and dart motif which runs the circumference of the hall and defines three inset panels, the central large panel containing an elaborate plaster medallion from which a handsome crystal chandelier hangs. The medallion is repeated though in a larger scale and without the fixture in the ceilings of both parlors. All of the crown moldings are also executed in plaster.

The house is approached on central axis by a drive that also passes the historic Cobbs Hall graveyard where many generations of the Lee family have been interred, including Richard Lee, the emigrant, who first patented the land on which Cobbs Hall sits in 1651, and his wife, Anna Constable.

To the north of the house stands the remains of an early one-and-a-half story brick, three-bay structure (38 ½ foot by 20-foot), of which only the walls remain. A determination needs to be made whether this building represents an earlier Cobbs Hall dwelling. To the south of the residence stand a brick, one-story meat house, measuring 13 ½ feet by 13 ½ feet and covered by a hipped roof and the 24-foot by 28-foot plantation kitchen that has been reconstructed on its original site. To the north of Cobbs Hall is a brick, hipped roof structure, measuring 13 ½ feet by 13 ½ feet, that houses the furnace and other utilities and is built on the site of the old laundry. The brick ruins and the brick meat house are contributing buildings to the nomination; the reconstructed kitchen and utility structure on the site of the laundry are non-contributing. On the northeast corner of the front lawn facing the river is the Harvey cemetery containing the remains of family members although only two stone markers are extant. It is believed that Martha Lee Harvey is interred here.

The sidelights and transoms of the entrances to the central hall contained colored-stained glass installed by Martha Lee Harvey. One set of which remains in place along with the transom of the other. A set of the other original side lights are in storage.

Cobbs Hall
Northumberland County, VA

Statement of Significance

Cobbs Hall is historically significant as one of the plantations associated with the distinguished Lee family of Virginia. Built on land, first patented by Richard Lee, the emigrant, in 1651, Cobbs Hall has remained in the ownership of his descendants to the present day. Architecturally, Cobbs Hall stands today as a two-story brick manor house, not only typical of its time and place but also noted for its outstanding plasterwork in the ceiling of the central hall as well as the ceilings of the two adjacent double parlors. The present Cobbs Hall was built in 1853 on the foundations of the original house, which was constructed by the Lees circa 1720. It is being restored by its present owner who has retained the bucolic setting appropriate for a rural Virginia plantation house.

Historical background and significance

Cobbs Hall in Northumberland County, Virginia is one of the noted Northern Neck plantations associated with the Lee family of Virginia since the middle of the seventeenth century. The plantation was originally part of the property first owned by Col. Richard Lee, the emigrant, who patented land there on Dividing Creek in 1651. At his death in 1663, Richard left by will 600 acres to his son, Charles Lee, and it was this inheritance that became the basis for the present Cobbs Hall. It is believed that Charles Lee lived in the residence of his mother, first with his parents and, after his father's death, with his stepfather, Edmund Lister, whom she married. Charles Lee died in 1701 and, by his will written the previous year, bequeathed "the 600 acres whereon I now am," referring to the Cobbs Hall property, to his son, Charles Lee. It was this Charles Lee who built circa 1720 the second Cobbs Hall on whose foundations the 1853 residence was built. Charles Lee II died in 1740, leaving Cobbs Hall to his son Charles Lee III (1722-1747). Charles Lee was married twice, both times to Lee cousins, his second wife being Leeanna (died post 1761), daughter of Lee Hannah Lee and her husband, William Jones and granddaughter of the first Charles Lee (died 1701). His son, Charles Lee IV (1744-1785) who married Sarah Hull (1747-1827), inherited Cobbs Hall. At his death, he left the plantation to his eldest son, Charles Lee V, who married but dying without issue in 1794 left Cobbs Hall to his brother, Richard Lee. At the time of Charles Lee's death in 1794 he had already sold 118 acres of the original 600 acreage to Roger Hughlett.

When Richard Lee died he left a son, Charles Lee VI, who died without issue, and seven daughters, one of whom, Martha Lee, became the next owner of Cobbs. Martha Lee (1803-1878) married in 1833 Lewis G. Harvey who actively began purchasing additional acreage from Lee heirs and adjacent landholders to expand the Cobbs Hall property more towards its original size. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey resided in the second Cobbs Hall which was destroyed by fire in 1846. They began construction of the present house in 1853 and resided there until their deaths.

In 1856 the Harveys purchased a 77-acre tract from Thomas Coppedge which Richard Lee had sold to him in 1801 and which bordered the ancient Lee graveyard, noted to be 27 feet by 30 feet. As mentioned previously, the historic Lee graveyard remains today about one-half mile from the present Cobbs Hall and appears to be the burial place not only of Charles Lee I (died 1701) and several generations of his family from Cobbs Hall but also of his father, Richard Lee (died 1663) and his mother, Anna Constable Lee Lister with her second husband, Edmund Lister. It is important to note that the Cobbs Hall property was inherited by Charles Lee I from his father who was apparently living in his own residence which was located in the vicinity of the present family graveyard so the property was once part of the plantation where Richard Lee, the emigrant lived and became the ancestor of so many distinguished descendants in Virginia and American history. After the death of Lewis Harvey and his wife, Cobbs Hall passed through two generations of Harveys, until one of their granddaughters sold the house and remaining acreage in 1992 to Richard Bland Lee V, another descendant of the family, thus allowing Cobbs to continue in unbroken Lee ownership since its first patent in 1651. The house is being restored to its ante bellum appearance, and the restoration has been true to form.

Cobbs Hall is significant as a reconstructed home of the distinguished Lee family of Virginia. It is noted for its architecture, notably the interior plasterwork and for the antiquarian impulses of Martha Lee Harvey who directed its design to closely resemble its colonial predecessor.

Produced by the United States Geological Survey and the National Ocean Service
Control by USGS and NOS/NOAA
Topography by photogrammetric methods from aerial photographs taken 1963. Field checked 1964
Bathymetry compiled by the National Ocean Service from tide-coordinated hydrographic surveys. This information is not intended for navigational purposes.
Mean low water (dotted) line and mean high water (heavy solid) line compiled by NOS from tide-coordinated aerial photographs
Apparent shoreline (outer edge of vegetation) shown by light solid line
Polyconic projection, 1927 North American Datum
10,000-foot grid based on Virginia coordinate system, south zone
1000-meter Universal Transverse Mercator grid ticks, zone 18 shown in blue
The difference between 1927 North American Datum and North American Datum of 1983 (NAD 83) for 7.5-minute intersections is given in USGS Bulletin 1875. The NAD 83 is shown by dashed corner ticks
